2010 CHICK DAYS

467-6669

Moyer's Broiler/Roaster chicks (sometimes nicknamed Cornish Giants) can be grown to a live weight of over 4 lbs. by 6 weeks of age! Or, they can be managed to a roaster weight of 8-10 lbs. The males can be used for excellent caponizing stock. Live weights of 4-5 lbs. can be achieved on close to 2 lbs. of feed per pound of meat. They have excellent conformation, plump, tender breast meat and good skin texture.

Moyer's Brown Egg Layers are a hybrid cross between a White Rock egg-layer type female and a Rhode Island Red male. Sustained production peaks of months over 90% are the norm, producing 270-300 eggs by 72 weeks of age on 4.0 - 4.3 lbs. of feed per dozen eggs produced. The mature layer weighs 4.75 - 5.0 lbs. and is very docile, making it the ideal layer for small family farm flocks as well as large, commercial operations.

Pullets (Hens) Only – Order in Multiples of 10

Moyer's White Leghorns are selected from some of the world's largest Poultry breeders. Producing 300 or more eggs in a yearly laying cycle, the eggs average 26- 28 ounces per dozen, utilizing 3.25 - 3.75 lbs. of feed per dozen eggs. This is a highly efficient white egg producer doing well in confinement housing.

Moyer's K-22 Red Broilers is a hearty meat bird that has resistant genetics providing good textured, flavorful meat for the discriminating consumer. They are perfect for the pastured poultry producer. The K-22 is a slower growing bird than the cornish giant with the males growing to a live weight of 5 pounds at around 8 weeks and the females growing to live a weight of 4 pounds at around 8 weeks.
